Retrospective Study afternoon team Klaverblad

Last Tuesday afternoon, we had a study afternoon. The focus was on our citizenship plan. The school's goal is to prepare children as well as possible to actively participate in society. This includes ensuring that children are proficient in arithmetic, reading, and writing, but they also need other skills.

All schools are required to have a good citizenship plan so that they can demonstrate the goals they are working towards and how they are monitoring them. The following learning objectives are included in our citizenship plan:

1. Resilience: The student is resilient and believes in themselves
2. Communication: The student can express themselves, listen to others, and think critically
3. Diversity: The student treats differences and diversity with respect
4. Collaboration: Students can collaborate, take responsibility, and solve problems.
5. Digital skills: Students can use digital resources safely.

6. Participation: Students participate in (democratic) society.

These specific goals have been set by the school. We work on these goals in various ways and at various times, but the citizenship plan provides insight into how we approach them in a targeted manner. We have now reached the stage where we need to work on effective monitoring and evaluation with regard to working on these goals. That was the specific purpose of this afternoon. As a school, we are supported in this by the Kleinegrotedenkers organization, which has a great deal of expertise in this area.

We have a great plan that we have a lot of confidence in. One of the key points will be to regularly include updates in the newsletter about how we are working towards one of these goals.

Report interviews

The first parent-teacher conferences will take place during the week of December 8. You can register for these via Social Schools starting Monday, December 1. So keep an eye on the app 😊 Because cooperation between parents, school, and children is very important for the optimal development of our children, we expect all parents to attend the conferences. So don't forget to register!

Christmas

Once Sinterklaas has departed, Christmas will soon be upon us. On Thursday, December 18, there will be a celebration at school, and in the evening we will have our annual Christmas dinner! More information about this will follow later.

This year, we will once again be able to arrange a Christmas package for all our students through the School Meals project. We are still working on this, but will inform you in due course when these packages will arrive and can be picked up.
